BIO

Marieve came from a family of French cooks, whose recipes and the love of food were passed down from generation to generation. Her training began in her own home kitchen at such an early age it's believed one of her first words were "brie en croute" - "baked brie".

Marieve began her career at 16 with her own catering company. Inspired by the unique demands of each client, she created a web series featuring party menus from the vegan dinner buffet to the decadent French bistro lunch. With her vast culinary abilities, she began private instruction where she concocted creative curricula based on the tastes and dietary needs of the individual.

This partnership, focusing on the needs of students and fostering their own cooking independence, became the working model behind the concept of Cooking 4 Bachelors, her most recent project. It is Marieve's mission to inspire each individual to become the master chef of their own palette.
